VOXX Electronics creates new Vehicle Safety, Security and Convenience Product Group

HAUPPAUGE, NEW YORK – MAY 2, 2017 —VOXX Electronics Corporation \(VEC\), a wholly-owned subsidiary of VOXX International Corporation (NASDAQ: VOXX), announced today the Company will be combining the Vehicle Security, Remote Start and Telematics group headed by Joe Dentamaro, VP of Vehicle Security with the Advanced Driver Assistance Systems (ADAS) group headed by Shane Wilson, Senior Product Manager to form the new Vehicle Safety, Security and Convenience Group.

“As we continue to develop new and innovative mobile electronics products for the Mobile Electronics Aftermarket we saw a perfect opportunity to bring together two separate groups and combine the knowledge and expertise of both into one cohesive team,” said Aron Demers, Senior Vice President, VOXX Electronics Corporation. “Together, these two groups have a tremendous amount synergies and will provide VOXX with an incredible amount of growth for this new group as well as the opportunities this will bring to our dealer partners for years to come.”

This new group will continue to be headed by Joe Dentamaro, Vice President of Vehicle Safety, Security and Convenience with Shane Wilson being promoted to the new position of Assistance Vice President of the group. In addition, Dan Bisceglia has been promoted from the Technical Service Department to join the new group as Product Manager and will relocate to the Troy, Michigan VOXX facility, joining current product managers Paul Burdick and Michael Lynch. This move brings together the entire group into the Troy, Michigan VOXX facility which is the same facility in which our OEM Engineering and Product Test Group resides. Over time, we will be expanding the group to include additional members to the team for Field Applications Technician and Trainers.
